

Identity Community Administrators

Sometimes you may need to verify information appearing on this community is official, and from The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society. Official community administrators are identified by the icon next to their user name.

When viewing a user profile of a community administrator's Status Level will appear as:

Community Administrator

If you see a post by someone who is not a community administrator, but it appears that they are posting or posing as an employee or Administrator, please use the Report Abuse feature located under the Actions section to the right of all post. If you have additional questions please use the Support link to contact us.
